The editorial department has in consequence fallen into other hands. Mr. ALLEN's present engagement rendering it impossible to superintend it in another city. PROPOSALS

By Joseph M Sanderson,

For Publishing by Subscription,

A Biography of the Signers

OF THE

Declaration of Independence,

Accompanied with Plates.

To which will be annexed a History of the Proceedings of Congress, during the passage of the Law, and the Declaration itself, with the fac simile Engravings of the Signatures.

By JOHN SANDERSON.

TO THE PUBLIC.

When we consider the personal qualities of the statesmen whose names are affixed to the Declaration of Independence, the perilous occasion which demanded the exertion of their wisdom and deliberation, and the influence of their councils on the interests of mankind, we must acknowledge that very rarely a more imposing spectacle has been offered to the world, and we shall seek in vain in the annals of nations, for an event more worthy of commemeration, and of being cherished forever in the hearts of a grateful and generous people. The love of independence is interwoven with the frame and constitution of the human mind. It is almost the first sentiment that animates the infant's features in the cradle; and amongst all the actions and enterprizes of man, none has awaked into activity a greater exertion of the virtuous energies of his nature, none has excited a greater warmth of veneration, and has more imperious claims upon our gratitude, than resistance to tyranny and political aggression.

In all republican states the first tribute of genius has been paid to the patriot or the hero who has promoted the cause of liberty and maintained the independence and dignity of man. The animated canvas and breathing marble have rescued his features from the grasp of death, and the pen of the historian has inscribed the achievements to the imperishable records of fame. It would indeed be no favorable prognostic of the perpetuity of our republican institutions to discover an insensibility to the obligations we owe the memory of the illustrious patrons of American freedom. They have raised us, by their magnanimity, from the arbitrary dominion of a foreign power, to the distinguished elevation of a sovereign and independent people; they have asserted and maintained the imprescriptible rights of humanity by the "mutual pledge of their pledge of their lives, their fortunes and their sacred honors;" and, as long as virtue holds her empire in the hearts of their successors, the example of these generous benefactors will not be lost to the world; their names will not pass away nor be forgotten, or their glorious deeds be confounded in the common and casual transaction of life.—Ingratitude is a vice that in nations, as well as individuals, indicates the last degree of degeneracy and corruption; it is a vice that implies the absence of every virtue; it was in the age of Caligula that the name of the Scipios was proscribed, that the statue of Brutus brought death on its possessor.

"The glory of our ancestors is the light of posterity," and the homage of the living cannot be offered to the merits of the illustrious dead with an effectual or sterile admiration. Great and splendid actions will seldom be achieved by men who have humble or ordinary objects in prospect. It is by contemplating the life and character of those who are marked out from the multitude by their eminent qualities, that we become emulous of their virtues and their renown. The trophies of Miltiades interrupted the sleeps of Themistocles; and Theseus, hearing the exploits of Hercules, was fired with his spirit, and became the successful rival of his fame. The rude savage of the desert listens with rapture to the deeds of his ancestors, and hangs around his hut the emblems of his father's valour.

More need not be said to enforce the utility of the publication we have undertaken, and which we now submit to the patronage of our fellow-citizens, with a hope, that from the liberality of their encouragement, we shall be able to present it to the public worthy of their approbation. We must depend for the illustration of many of the characters of our biography, upon the generosity of their surviving relatives and friends, to furnish us with whatever interesting materials may be in their possession; for which, with our grateful acknowledgments, we promise a copy of the entire work as a compensation.

CONDITIONS.

I. The work will be published in numbers or half volumes of 200 pages, octavo, and contained in ten numbers. To the first will be prefixed an appropriate frontispiece—and the work will be commenced with the declaration of independence, with engraved fac similes of the signatures, and a compendious detail of the proceedings of congress, during the passage of the law. Each of the lives, unless when it is impracticable, will be preceded by a likeness of the person, engraved by the best artists in the United States.

II. It will be printed on fine paper, made expressly for the purpose, and delivered to subscribers at two dollars and fifty cents per number, payable on delivery

THE SLAVE TRADE.

[From Montgomery's "Ocean."

There are, gloomy Ocean! a brotherless [Clan,
Who traverse thy banishing waves,
The poor disinherited outcasts of Man,
Whom Avarice coins into Slaves!
From the homes of their kindred, their fore-father's graves,
Love, friendship, and conjogal bliss,
They are drag'd on the hoary abyss;
The Shark hear their shrieks, and ascending to day,
Demands of the spoiler his share of the prey.
Then joy to the tempest that whirls them beneath,
And makes their destruction its sport!
But woe to the winds that propitiously breathe,
And waft them in safety to port!
Where the Vultures and Vampyres of Mammon resort;
Where Europe exultingly drains,
The life-blood from Africa's veins;
Where Man rules o'er Man with a merciless rod,
And spurns at his footstool the image of God!
The hour is approaching—a terrible hour!
And Vengeance is bending her bow;
Already the clouds of the Hurricane lower,
And the rock-rending Whirlwinds blow;
Back rolls the huge Ocean—Hell opens below;
The floods return headlong—they sweep
The Slave-cultur'd lands to the deep;
In a moment entom'd in the terrible void,
By their Maker himself in his anger destroy'd.
Shall this be the fate of the cane planted Isles,
More lovely than clouds in the west,
When the Sun o'er the Ocean descending in smiles,
Sinks softly and sweetly to rest?
—No!—Father of Mercy! befriend the oppress;
At the voice of thy Gospel of Peace,
May the sorrows of Africa cease;
And the Slave and the Master devoutly unite,
To walk in thy freedom and dwell in thy light.

ANTIQUITIES.

Among the many reliques of antiquities with which this country abounds, one has lately been discovered at Newholm, in the parish of Dolphinton, Lanarkshire. At the head of the avenue which leads to the house, upon a cut being made through a little eminence, there was observed a regular row of stones—on removing the earth, there appeared a most entire and well formed stone coffin. Contrary to the general mode of construction, it was narrow, and made in exact conformity to the shape of the body. The stones were close and regularly set around. The upper edge was as smoothly level as if it had been hewn. The bottom was laid with stones, and they who had paid the last tribute to the mortal remains, had kindly placed a stone for a pillow. Notwithstanding the lapse of ages, since the body must have been deposited in its dreary abode, the bones were found very entire. The scull was almost whole, and to the eye, seemed uncommonly large between the occiput and sinciput. Most of the teeth were sound. The arms, bones, back, thighs, and legs, were all recognised. The inside of the coffin was fully six feet long, and it appeared as if the body had been pressed into it. These sad reliques were examined with reverence, and again deposited in the place which they had occupied for so many centuries. [English paper.

MILTON.

At fifteen, had studied with uncommon avidity, but at the same time with such inattention to his health, seldom retiring from his books before midnight, that the source of his blindness may be traced to his early passion for letters. In his twelfth year, as he tells us, this literary devotion began; from which he was not to be deterred, either by the natural debility of his eyes, or by his frequent head aches. The union of genius and application was never more conspicuous.

TIME.

An hour well spent condemns a life. When we reflect on the sum of improvement and delight gained in that single hour, how do the multitude of hours already past rise up and say, what good has marked us? Wouldst thou know the true worth of time, employ an hour.

BEAUTIFUL ALLEGORY.

Happiness and Virtue are twins which can never be divided. They are born and flourish, or sicken and die together. They are joint offsprings of good sense and innocence—and while they continue under the guidance of such parents, they are invulnerable to decay.

ENDOWMENTS.

Riches cannot purchase worthy endowments; they make us neither more wise nor more healthy. None but intellectual possessions are what we can properly call our own.

ALEXANDRIA:
THURSDAY MORNING, December 16.

SAMUEL STERETT, Esq. has been elected by a joint ballot of the Legislature, Governor of Maryland, for the ensuing year.

The Legislature of Pennsylvania is in session. On the 10th inst. the Governor transmitted his message to both houses.

The exertions of Colonel Little, one of our Representatives in Congress, have obtained for the manufacturers in the United States a most important acquisition in the appointment of a Committee to attend particularly to the consideration of their interest, and to point out the means by which they may best be promoted. The precedent is now established, and a Committee of Manufactures will hereafter be appointed by every Congress as a matter of course. [Balt. Gaz.

The Boston Daily Advertiser of Tuesday and Wednesday of last week, contains a very excellent charge delivered by Judge Story, of the Supreme Court of the U. States, to the grand juries of the circuit courts of Providence and Boston, at their session in October and November last. We regret that its length prevents us from publishing it, as the sentiments which it contains on the two great subjects of piracy and the slave trade are not only highly important, but are enforced with great energy and feeling.

Alluding to the abolition of the slave trade by the Parliament of Gt. Britain, the Judge remarks—"This act was indeed the triumph of virtue, of reason, and of humanity over the hard heartedness of avarice; and while it was adorned by the brilliant talents of Pitt, Fox, Romilly, and Wilberforce, let us never forget that its success was principally owing to the modest but persevering labors of the Quakers, and above all to the resolute patience and the noble philanthropy of a man immortalized by his virtues—the intrepid Thomas Clarkson.

"It is a most cheering circumstance that the examples of the United States and Great Britain, in thus abolishing the Slave Trade, have, through the strenuous exertions of the latter, been generally approved throughout the continent of Europe. The government of Great Britain has indeed employed the most indefatigable and persevering diligence to accomplish this most desirable object, and treaties have been made by her with all the principal foreign powers, providing for the total abolition of the trade within a very short period. May America not be behind her in this glorious work; but by a generous competition in virtuous deeds restore the degraded African to his natural rights, and strike his manacles from the bloody hands of his oppressors."

He then proceeds to display a picture of the abominations of the Slave trade, the details of which are enough to chill the heart of every person, not rendered hard as the nether mill stone, by a participation in the infernal traffic, or in its consequences, with the deepest horror. And yet in spite of our laws and penalties, this bloody traffic is still carried on, and carried on by our citizens. "I wish," says Judge Story, "I could say that New-England and New-England men were free from this deep pollution"—and we wish, it might be said, that not only New England, but all other parts of our country were alike exempt from this foul stain to individual as well as national character. Above all things let us guard whilst we have it in our power, against its extension within our own jurisdiction. The spirit that is now happily so wide awake in the country, and especially in the states where neither slavery nor the slave trade are permitted, promises much—we trust it will accomplish all that it promises, and save the nation from any accumulation of judgments for countenancing, at this late period, the practice, or the further extension of this foul iniquity.

—— [N. Y. D. Adv.

Mr. Robert Annon, Minister of the Gospel, fell from his gig, or was precipitated, for the gig upset, on Sunday morning, 5th inst. on his way to Octorara meeting house, (Pa.) and was so severely injured by the fall, that on Monday evening he departed this life, having apparently suffered much pain, from wounds in the head and other parts of the body; though unable to make any communication, even by signs. It is supposed he was about 80 years of age.

FEMALE ORATOR.

A lady, says the Boston Daily Advertiser of Thursday last, will deliver an Oration on Masonry, this evening at Concert Hall. The novelty of this undertaking will doubtless attract a numerous audience. We understand she is a person of very respectable connections; and that she has adopted this method in order to be enabled to prosecute claims to which she is a party, in a foreign land.

St. Louis, Nov. 10.

The present drought had prepared the grass, leaves and fallen timber, for burning, at an earlier period than usual, and, notwithstanding the severe penalty for firing the prairies and woods, the country on both sides of the Mississippi and Missouri has been set on fire by some careless or malicious persons and immense quantities of hay, corn, wheat, and fencing, are destroyed; some of our farmers have lost property to the amount of 3000 dollars.

Albany, Dec. 7.

On Saturday night, the river opposite this city, and for some distance below, was frozen over. The steam-boat Chancellor came up within 7 miles of the city, on Saturday, and on Sunday morning, the passengers went down in carriages, not daring to wait the usual departure of the boat on Monday. The earth remains white with snow, and the cold is about equal to what is usually experienced at Christmas and New-Year. We have, however, never known the winter permanently to close in when the water in the Hudson was so low as at this time.

[The navigation has since been open—A sloop arrived here on Thursday evening, which left Troy at 6 o'clock the same morning. —— [N. Y. M. Adv.

The new steam ship Manhattan, Jenkins, from this port for New-Orleans and Louisville, passed Havana, 20th ult. in fine style. —— [Ibid.

RAPID SAILING.

On the 11th inst. a sloop arrived at New-York, in 14 hours from Troy; and yesterday, the brig White Oak, capt. Betts, bound to New-Orleans, discharged her pilot beyond the Hook, in 1 hour and 10 minutes after turning the point of Governor's Island.—The former must have sailed at the average rate of nearly 13 miles an hour; and the latter about 20. —— [*Com. New-York, Dec. 13.

OYSTERING.

We have received a letter, under date of "King and Queen County Jail, Virginia, Nov. 25, 1819," signed by John Britton, Anthony Houseman, and Jacob Houseman, all of Staten Island.

It appears from their communication to us, that on the 5th of last month, their vessels were taken while oystering in the middle of York River, by a violent mob commanded by W. R. Esq. and the Sheriff, being then below the West Point of Virginia. They say they were carried 25 miles to the above place, treated as Algerines, and put in close confinement—that they were tried on the 8th, without being allowed witnesses in their favor, condemned, and immediately sent back to prison. On the 15th, they wrote to the President and Vice President of the U. S. but had received no answer. They consider themselves unjustly treated, and dealt with contrary to law and the constitution of the U. S. They further state, that a heavy tribute was demanded for their release—and conclude by stating, that "this county of Virginia has committed a scandal to the Union, a disgrace to our constitution, and a stain upon the American flag."

[As this subject is an important one, and as a representation of the circumstances have been made known to the proper authorities, we have no doubt but our aggrieved neighbors will find that justice which is due to honest and industrious men, pursuing a laborious business to earn a maintenance for themselves and families.] [Gazette.

It falls to us to mention a very lamentable dispensation of Providence. At 4 o'clock yesterday morning, the sloop Hope, captain Wiltse, from New-York to Fishkill, was upset in the Highlands by an unexpected flaw of wind, and three persons were drowned.—The survivors were taken off the Hope by the sloop Dutchess, and the Hope drifted ashore near West Point, 4 miles below the place at which she upset. [Ibid.

INTEMPERANCE.

A man about 40 years of age, clerk in a respectable establishment, was taken up at a late hour on Saturday evening by the watch in the highest state of intoxication. Very soon after being seated before a warm fire in the watch-house, he expired! His appearance was robust, & bore the marks of health, but he was bloated! Why will men continue to indulge in the immoderate use of BRANDY!—In moderation it is good, in aid of digestion, but it ought not to conquer. —— [Ibid.

From the Boston Gazette.

GREAT TRAVELLING.

The Cambridge (English) Chronicle mentions, in a pompous manner, an account of a single individual who, in five years, rode 120,516 miles, between Northampton and Canton, 'without halting one night.' The distance is 66 miles, and is computed to be about 40 times the length of Europe. We have an individual who will well compare with this statement.—Mr. John Mendrum, the driver of the accommodating stage between Boston and Portsmouth, goes the distance every day in the week, except Sunday. It is 62 miles, and in one year amounts to 19,386 miles, after deducting for Sunday, in 5 years amounts to 96,930 miles. We question whether there is another individual in the United States who travels so great a distance every day, and which he generally accomplishes in about eight hours.

DOMESTIC ECONOMY.

If the approach of winter brings with it the promise of comfort, joy, social mirth and domestic pleasure, it still has its evils, its hardships and privations. We gaze through our crystal lattices on the pendrous icicles which are pendant from the leafless branches: we listen to the shrill northern blast that whistles through our halls, and turn to the well built fire and festive board, unheedful of the misery and distress which the unfortunate are doomed to feel. I like long evenings—some how or other, I find the day too short to finish all my business, and evening is the only time for "judicious mirth or salutary woe." Looking over my memorandums I found myself several visits in arrears to old friends, whose families had afforded me many a happy and agreeable hour; and I set out, with the silver moon as my guide, on a clear frosty night, to visit my old friend Nic Evergreen. On entering his comfortable parlor, I heard the lively rattle of the tea cups, a sound which is a cordial to the ear, and the herald of social converse, comfort and hilarity. Dr. Johnson was often ridiculed for his attachment to tea, and very unnecessarily, if not improperly—for scarcely had his lips embraced the porcelain, and tasted the balmy beverage, when his wit burst forth like the sun on a May morning, warming, reviving and cheering all around. Surely then, we should respect tea, for its amiable qualities; and if it can "sweeten the imagination," or sharpen the faculties, it certainly should be preferred to brandy and water. Give me tea and toast; then, a muffin or a buckwheat cake, and I will surrender all the quivering castles, pyramids of kisses, and ponderous masses of black cake, which my friend Mrs. Poppleton, displays, in such a tempting manner, on her counter in Broad-way. My old friend Nic, was reading the Post: I always sip a little and read a little, says he—Coleman is a kind of relish; he is my anchory, my smoked salmon; I can't do without him. I found several young and beautiful ladies plying the needle with the industry of Lucretia; each was employed in sewing some course articles of clothing which, as I examined attentively, they gave me to understand, was for poor children, belonging to some charitable institution. The object seemed to inspire them; and while their fine eyes sparkled with amiable vivacity, their fingers moved with briskness, unmindful of the frequent punctures made by the unguarded and sharply pointed instrument. They threw by their work, to draw around the social table: no dull arrangement—no getting into corners—no cold stateliness, chilling politeness, and corsetted stiffness: all was ease and unaffected sweetness—they resembled a wreath of roses, impearled with the morning dew. Conversation, chaste and pleasing, cheerful and animating, went gaily round: they talked of fashion, but slightly—of books and balls—of promenades and weddings, and shortly resumed their employments. The chiming of the hall bell announced visitors, when two elderly ladies made their appearance. They were well known and courteously received, and, immediately invited to lay aside their cloaks and bonnets and spend the evening. One of them declined. Our visit is of business not of pleasure; we are a committee appointed by the society for the relief of respectable widows, and, in pursuance of our duty, we have called to solicit your charitable aid. Our funds are small, and the approach of winter warns us of the many comforts which age demands: those who are under our care are widows, born to happier fortunes—whose mind and manners have been formed and tempered by education, and who therefore, more keenly feel the reverse of their condition—widows who were once blessed with plenty and who shared that plenty with the needy, but who, in the winter of life, are deserted by the smiles of fortune, with hardly a pillow on which to repose their silver locks and aching head.—This appeal was not without effect, each young lady unlocked her little store and extended to the petitioners the cheerful mite, which generosity sweetens and charity embalms; they gave with it some heavy sighs, which reached a higher source and called down a merited blessing. The ladies departed, and the company, lamenting the hardness of the times and their inability to give more, resumed their work, when not long after, three young and interesting women were introduced, their errand was also a charitable one; they plead the cause of the poor orphan, the child of affliction, the property of the commonwealth, without parents to supply their wants, to guard their health, to watch their tender years, thrown on the protection of the world, and depending on Him "who tempers the wind to the shorn lamb;" they lifted up their little hands to implore the charity of those who had hearts to feel and means to relieve their sufferings. This appeal was also felt, and they obtained a liberal donation, given with a smile of delight, and a cheerfulness which enriched and enhanced its value. The house of industry next petitioned through the respectable ladies, for it seems that women assume the task of asking alms for those who cannot be supported without it. Here was a new scene exhibited; a house of industry, where the poor are clothed and fed, but where they also contribute by their labor to the support of the institution, where the loom and spinning wheel are seen in constant motion, and where exercise and frugality, cleanliness and comfort, generally prevail. that institution, at the approach of rugged winter, also requires aid to keep its tenants in comfort and employment. My female friends had yet a little left in the corner of their purses, which was as freely given, and thus terminated the charitable appeals for that evening. How is it possible, that a young lady can squander her means in trifling objects, and deny herself the luxury, the solace of contributing to alleviate the wants of others? If they knew how meek, how amiable, how lovely, they appear, when, like administering angels they scatter roses over barren heaths, strew plenty in the way of want, bind up the wounds which dire poverty inflicts, and pour an oily balsam on the almost broken hearts of the widow and orphan, they would never waste upon unnecessary ornament or extravagant pleasures, the means whereby such cheering results can be produced. A ray of almost divine beauty and perfection sheds a sacred lustre over that face which pity consecrates to charity; and the tear which trembles in the eye and dims its lustre at a tale of misery, is like a rich gem sparkling from the mine, or the pure icicle which glitters and melts in the sun beams. HOWARD.

THE RATTLE SNAKE.

It is well known that the Rattle Snake remains torpid during the cold weather, sheltered from the action of frost, either in the recesses of rocks, or in the earth, near the uniform temperature of springs. In this state, should it freeze, life is destroyed. Rattle Snakes have been kept alive, by feeding, in the summer, on Rats, Mice, and Moles, during fourteen years. Others have been kept alive in the same manner, during three or four years. But there is a large Rattle Snake, now alive in the Museum in this city, which has refused to eat for the last fifteen months, though it may have drank of water, which is regularly put into the cage. It is extremely emaciated. This is a singular instance of well authenticated abstinence, and worthy of some attention.

ADAM RAMAGE

RESPECTFULLY informs the trade, that he continues to manufacture the Screw and Ruthven Printing Presses.

The former, in its present improved state, with iron beds, &c. he has obtained a patent for. The estimation in which this press is held, is perhaps best shewn by the demand for it—nearly 600 being in use of his make; and every exertion shall still be made to render it as complete as possible.

☞All other articles in his line, as usual.

THE RUTHVEN PRESS.

This PRESS has been adopted, from possessing advantages over all the Iron and one pull Presses that are known to be in use in America or Europe, in some particulars; that is to say, its construction combining immense power in a compact form, (given by levers) to durability and lightness. It is particularly adapted for being moved and comprised in a space of small comparative bulk. The manner of giving the impression is entirely original, and different from other presses, calculated to save the type. The form is uniformly stationary, and the platten passes over by means of rollers, and a channel or tail ways, until brought parallel with the form, it rests, and the impression is given with ease, and in an instant, by turning the rounce or handle with the left hand, exactly corresponding with the running in of the carriage and form of the old press. The two surfaces being of iron, and true to the greatest perfection, bad work cannot be done on them, when the press is once adjusted, the pull regulated, and the beating attended to. The smallest cards may be printed on them without bearers or mackling—they may also be used, when the form is off, for taking copies from manuscripts, seals, coins, &c.—They require no levelling or fixing, and the Press, of a large royal size, occupies only a space of forty inches square.

Each Press will be accompanied with a copper plate engraving, and printed directions.

He will only add, that it is his determination to make them as complete and cheap as possible, and is now selling them as low as they are sold in Great Britain, with some improvements, and at least not inferior in workmanship.

This press is in general use in Europe, and has the recommendations of Printers of the highest standing in their favor

The opinions of some of those who have used them here, is respectfully submitted.

ADAM RAMAGE.

Philadelphia, Nov. 24, 1818.

Mr. A. Ramage:

Dear Sir—I consider the Ruthven Press as a very valuable improvement; and think the trade generally, are under great obligations to you for your zeal and perseverance, in naturalizing so useful an invention.

The Press combines a vast accession of power, with a considerable dimunition of labor to the workmen; and so far as relates to the one you manufactured for me, I can safely say, that it is impossible for any press to produce a more equable impression The platten and bed for the form being both of cast iron, I fully expect that this most essential quality will be permanent.

With hearty wishes for that success to your manufactory, which it so well deserves, I am sir, your obedient servant,

THOS. H. PALMER.

Philadelphia, Nov. 24, 1818.

We, the subscribers, having had the Ruthven Press in operation for some time past, are of opinion, that it is equal in every respect to any Press now in use. Its peculiar merits consist, in the form remaining stationary—the mode of giving the impression, and the ease and facility with which the necessary power is applied by the workmen. We hesitate not to declare our entire satisfaction with the press, and that we look upon the preference given it, by the different workmen engaged, as conclusive testimony in its favor. (Signed) WILLIAM BROWN.

Philadelphia. Nov. 25, 1818.

Sir—Solicitous as we feel for the encouragement of American genius, we cannot withhold the praise due a foreign invention of manifest advantage. The Ruthven Press, upon which we are desired to give an opinion, we consider the most complete machine for printing, we have ever examined. For ease in working, we have never seen its equal. From its peculiar instruction, ingenius as it is novel, we conceive it to be admirably calculated for the performance of good printing. With regard to its celerity, our short acquaintance with the machine will not permit us to speak positively; but we believe it will not be found inferior to any on the continent.

With respect, &c. &c.

To Adam Ramage.

New-York, July 8. 1819.

Dear Sir—I have for some time past been threatening to write to you, to let you know how well I am pleased with the Ruthven Press, improved and made by you; but a variety of circumstances have prevented it. I have had it in constant operation three months: during which time nearly all the printers of this city, and a number of our most ingenious mechanics, have called to examine it. They have pronounced it as complete in every respect, as any machinery they have ever seen.

The following is the idea I have of it.

No Printing Press has ever been constructed, on which more or better work can be done in a given time.

The exertion of working it is no more than healthy exercise for a boy of 15 years of age. (I have a boy of that age to work on mine.)

It is well made, the different parts admirably proportioned, and not more liable than other presses to get out of repair.

I am, your's respectfully,

D. FANSHAW.

Mr. A. Ramage.

New-York, April 25, 1818.

Sir—The Ruthven Press arrived safe, and is in successful operation. Many of our Printers have been looking at, and all express their unqualified approbation of it.

Your Press is better made than one we have from Ruthven's manufactory. It is, in fact, an excellent machine, as powerful as the Columbian, and to be preferred for its lightness and simplicity.

Fifty Dollars Reward.

RAN AWAY from the subscriber, on Thursday, the 11th inst. a negro man, named DICK, who sometimes calls himself Dick Douglas. He is a small man about 5 feet 6 inches high, and is not a very black man. I purchased him from the estate of Edgar McCarty, esq. Cedar Grove, Fairfax county, Va. and it is likely that he may be lurking about that neighborhood or Colchester, as he has a wife at capt. Berry's of the latter place; or he may have gone to Loudoun county, as he has lived there in the neighborhood of Wm. McCarty and John McCarty, near Leesburg. He had on and took with him an old grey cloth coat and a brown do pantaloons of drab colored domestic cloth. He is much addicted to liquor, and is a coarse shoemaker. I will give 20 dollars if taken in the district of Columbia. Thirty dollars if taken in Fairfax county, and the above reward if apprehended in any other place, and secured so that I get him again; and reasonable charges if brought home. WM. B. STUART.

100 Dollars Reward.

RAN away from the subscriber living in King George's county Va. on Monday the 22nd March, a yellow man named JAMES,
about 22 years of age, his fore teeth wide apart, and cannot speak very quick—had on Virginia cloth clothes and carried off a shaggy great coat, he has a father named Peter Hall, who lives with the widow Morgan, at Oak Hill, Fauquier Co. and his grandfather old Frederick Hall, is supposed to be living at Mr. Terrett's near Alexandria, and it is likely he may be lurking about there.—I will give the above reward for apprehending and securing said fellow so that I get him again, and reasonable charges if brought home. Masters of vessels and others are forewarned against harboring or carrying off said fellow tf June 14

100 Dollars Reward.

RAN AWAY from the subscriber, living near Aldie, Loudoun county Virginia, on the night of the 11th inst. a negro man, who calls his name NED BIAYS. He is a shrewd, intelligent negro, about 5 feet 7 or 8 inches high; 30 years of age, well made, active and polite. Had on when he went away, a sky colored coat, and corded pantaloons. His right eye sore, apparently occasioned by a blow, the blood having settled around it. His ears have been pierced, and had green silk in them when he went away. It is expected he is now lurking about Fairfax court-house and Aldie. The above Ned Biays ran away on the night of the 25th of last Aug. and was caught on the 11th inst. on the night of which he effected his elopement by drawing the staple to which he was fastened by the handle of a pan, while there was no person in the kitchen but himself. He was caught on the 11th inst. a few miles below Aldie, but I think it improbable that he has gone near the same place again. I will give 100 dollars if he is taken out of the county, and fifty if taken in the county, and secured so that I get him again, and all reasonable charges if brought home. GEO. GULICK.
P. S. It is supposed that the said negro has obtained papers of freedom, or a free pass, or something of the kind. G. G.

100 Dollars Reward.

I WILL give the above reward to any person who will return to my possession, negro LAWRENCE, who assumes the surname of FENWICK. This fellow left my farm, on the Wicomico river, in Charles county, Md. on the 6th July, in consequence of his own outrageous conduct towards my overseer. He is a negro of a fine erect figure, good features, a smooth black skin, rather above the middle stature, of a youthful appearance for one of thirty years of age, and of great plausibility and natural smartness. His ears grow remarkably close to his head, and on the inside of his lower lip he has a white mark or spot. I purchased him 4 years ago of the estate of Mrs. P. H. Courts, of this county. I am led (by circumstances which have come to my knowledge since he absconded,) to believe that he will endeavor to make his way to King George county, Va.; should he not take this route, he will probably be met with in the District of Columbia, or in the upper counties of this state, on his way to Pennsylvania. I apprehend he will change his name, and if committed to jail, refuse to state to whom he belongs, as the misconduct which preceded his departure, & his absconding, have all appeared since to have been premeditated. He took all his clothes with him, of which he had a large number; among them—a new bearskin over-coat, a long close bodied blue coat, a pair of striped jean pantaloons, one or more white waistcoats, besides many articles of coarse cloathing; these, however, he will probably exchange, or sell them for cash to defray his travelling expenses.

I will give the above reward to any person who will bring him home to me, or FIFTY DOLLARS if confined in jail, and notice given me, so that I recover him.—Should he be taken out of the state, I will also pay all reasonable costs and charges which may attend the bringing him home.
I. T. STODDERT,
West Hatton, near Allen's Fresh Post-Office, Charles county, Maryland.

100 Dollars Reward.

RAN AWAY on the 25th of April last, a man called NED, formerly the property of Mr. Fitzhugh, of Fairfax, and by him sold to Hepburn & Dundas. He had on when he went away an old country blue and white cloth coat, and kersey trowsers—his right hand in a sling, in consequence of the kick of a horse. Ned is a stupid looking fellow, and hesitates very much when he speaks. I will give fifty dollars if apprehended in the District, or the above reward for apprehending him out of the District, so that I get him again.

S. Drew, Merchant Tailor,

Removed from Fairfax-street to the corner of King and Columbus streets, and his prices falling,

RESPECTFULLY acquaints his customers and the citizens in general that he has removed as above, where he will study to give satisfaction. He has by him a small but well assorted stock of goods, which will be found on inspection to be of the best quality, the whole of which he wishes to sell low for cash, and as further inducements to purchasers he offers to cut out any goods, bought of him to any size or pattern gratis.

S. Drew aware, of the advantage a ready money business has over one where long credit is given, thinks that a distinction ought to be made in the prices in each case: and as the price of provisions are low at present, he is glad to be able to announce to those customers who will feel disposed to pay him ready money for his work, that he will reduce the price of making to them according to the present journeymen's wages; and to prevent any supposed imposition on the one hand or disatisfaction on the other he is willing to be goverued by the printed regulations of prices by which the journeymen are paid in Alexandria.

N. B. Bread, flour, beef, groceries, liquors or any thing valuable taken in exchange for clothes.

S Drew has this day opened a tavern in the same house, where he has laid in a supply of Philadelphia and the district porter and ale, together with liquors of the best quality, and he feels confident that he shall be able to give satisfaction to all who will please to favor him with a call.—He is fitting up his house for the accommodation of boarders, travellers, &c. and from its central situation, good beds and stabling, together with other requisites, he presumes that it will be found a convenient establishment.

All masters of vessels are forewarned from harboring or taking into their employ said negro, under penalty of having the law rigidly enforced against them.
